Partners Imaging Completes Agreement With Leading Cardiology Practice in Gainesville, Fla.

Dallas, Texas (July , 2007) – Dallas-based Partners Imaging has announced a partnership with a leading cardiology practice in Gainesville, Florida. Partners Imaging will manage all aspects of the practice's in-office 64-slice computed tomography (CT) program.

Interventional Cardiologists of Gainesville, one of the largest cardiology practices in Alachua County with nine cardiologists, chose Partners Imaging for its excellence in CT scanner operations. Partners Imaging's expertise in-day-to-day management includes staff and training development, IT technical support, and business development planning.

Serving the cardiovascular needs of Alachua and surrounding counties since 1973, Interventional Cardiologists' mission is to provide the highest quality care to the residents of North Central Florida through state-of-the-art diagnostic and therapeutic technologies and patient self-involvement in their own care. The practice has grown rapidly over the past several years and a new location has recently opened in the Lake City area.

"By forming a joint venture with Partners Imaging, the physicians associated with Interventional Cardiologists of Gainesville are able to allocate time, expertise and resources to continue providing our patients with the highest level of service and treatment, “said Gregory A. Imperi, MD, FACC, FACP, interventional cardiologist. “With Partners Imaging we have the peace-of-mind knowing the operations side of our CT business is being operated and managed by the leading experts in the field of cardiovascular CT”.

“Partners Imaging manages the entire process and creates significant operational efficiencies. In addition, they provide the resources necessary in support of our local efforts to help us further develop our practice”, states Jay C. Koons, MD, PhD, FACC, interventional cardiologist.

Partners Imaging offers a comprehensive approach to develop and manage cardiac CT scanners within physicians’ practices across the United States. Partners Imaging provides the resources necessary to assure a smooth and rapid implementation and on-going management. In addition, Partners Imaging leverages its infrastructure across all partnerships to provide services at a much lower per site cost than can be achieved independently.

“Our partnerships with cardiologists afford them the ability to spend more time caring for their patients. We provide the behind-the-scenes expertise to benefit both their patients and their practice. “Michael Zucker, Partners Imaging CEO, said.
